U.S. Gets Nod To Recover Wreckage

BERLIN (AP)—A convoy of five U.S. military vehicles left today for Red-ruled East Germany to pick up the bodies of three U.S. Air Force officers and the wreckage of the plane in which they were shot down by the Russians.

An Air Force spokesman said the Russians had granted permission to recover the bodies and the wreckage.

The spokesman said the bodies will be brought to West Berlin and then to Wiesbaden in West Germany.

The scene of the crash is about 125 miles southwest of Berlin.

Washington and Moscow traded protests Wednesday. The Kremlin sent a note saying a Soviet fighter downed the T39 jet trainer about 60 miles inside Communist East Germany after the plane failed to heed warning signals. The note accused the U.S. military of "gross provocation" by intruding into Communist air space.

The State Department charged the Soviets with "a callous and inexcusably brutal act of violence against an unarmed aircraft that accidentally strayed over the demarcation line between West and East Germany."

It demanded U.S. access to the plane wreckage and recovery of the fliers' bodies, and punishment of "those responsible for the shooting down of the aircraft and the killing of these men."

Asst. Secretary of State William Tyler called in the ranking Soviet diplomat available, Georgi M. Kornienko, and gave him the U.S. rejoinder orally.

Kornienko told newsmen afterward, "I did not accept the protest." He termed the U.S. flight deliberate, saying, "We have all grounds to believe that this was not an error or a mistake."

State Department authorities took the line that Kornienko had in fact received the protest because he listened to it, and that it is up to the Soviets to respond whether or not Washington decides to follow through with a written note.

They said representatives from the U.S. military mission at Potsdam, East Germany, had been prevented from going closer than 200 yards to the plane wreckage.

The incident was described by U.S. sources as serious but not as provocative, from the standpoint of East-West relations, as the Soviet shooting of a U.S. RB47 reconnaissance plane over the Barents Sea in 1960. The United States said that plane was attacked over international waters.

Who ordered the attack on the jet trainer was not known here. There was some speculation that the decision may have been made by a local commander.

Prexy Urges Smoking Curb

ADA, Ohio (AP)—Dr. F. Bringle McIntosh, president of Ohio Northern University and a non-smoker, has urged in an open letter that students give "most careful consideration" to the matter of smoking.

McIntosh wrote his letter to the campus newspaper after studying the recent federal report on smoking and cancer. His letter says in part: "I feel it is my duty to admonish our students to give most careful consideration before subjecting themselves to a habit which is not easy to break."

The university refuses to permit cigarette advertising in its publications, will not allow distribution of free samples on campus, and had cigarette vending machines removed last summer.

MOTHER-IN-LAW TROUBLE — "Maybe some fire station would like to have me," Twinkle, a 7-month-old Dalmatian, seems to be saying in this array at the Animal Welfare League in Chicago. Twinkle had mother-in-law trouble. The family that brought Twinkle there liked her, but the woman's mother-in-law, a frequent visitor, doesn't like big dogs, so Twinkle, 21 inches high at the shoulder, was out.

U.S.-Panama Talks Collapse

America Accused Of 'Aggression'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Negotiations aimed at a peaceful solution of the U.S.-Panama dispute have collapsed and charges of aggression — Panama has called for an emergency meeting of hemisphere foreign ministers.

Miguel Moreno, Panama's ambassador to the Organization of American States, delivered a note from his government which included the conference request and the renewed charge of aggression to OAS Secretary General Jose A. Mora Wednesday night.

Said Moreno: "We have searched for a dignified solution to the controversy but unfortunately and in spite of the good offices of the Inter-American Peace Committee and our willingness we have achieved no success."

The note included one of Jan. 9 by Panama Foreign Minister Galileo Solis in which he said "the Republic of Panama has been the victim of an unprovoked armed attack against its territory and civil population made by the armed forces of the United States of America stationed in the Canal Zone."

President Johnson has met this accusation with a declaration that U.S. troops, faced by sniper fire and mob action, repelled aggression rather than committed it.

Panama has remained firm on its demand that the United States pledge it will sign a new treaty to replace the 1903 agreement which gave it rights to the canal in perpetuity.

At first, the United States refused to mention the canal in any agreement to talk. Later it agreed to seek with Panama "concrete solutions of all problems dividing both countries, including those deriving from the existence of the Panama Canal."

Wish Is Realized, But after Death

WILLOUGHBY, Ohio (AP)—Glen J. Medlin, a city road foreman at nearby Eastlake, wanted a baby girl with all his heart. He had picked a name—Donna Jo.

Medlin, 58, had fathered nine sons. Six, grown and married, were born to his former wife. Three, aged 9, 7 and 2, were at home.

Saturday Medlin died, shortly after he was admitted to a hospital.

Monday night his wife, Jean, 32, gave birth to a baby girl at the hospital. She named her Donna Jo.

Near Dictator In Command Of Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, a 37-year-old army corps commander, became a virtual dictator of South Viet Nam today in a swift, bloodless coup. He pledged to "smash the Communists and the traitors who advocate neutralism."

A new council of generals took shape to help him run the country and the U.S.-backed war against Red guerrillas.

Khanh dissolved the old government and clapped four key generals of that regime in jail. Three of them were charged with plotting with France to neutralize South Viet Nam. French President Charles de Gaulle has advocated neutralization of both North and South Viet Nam.

The fate of Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh, chairman of the junta that had ruled Viet Nam since the destruction of President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime last Nov. 1, was uncertain. Minh was not arrested with the other generals and there was a possibility he would be kept on as technical chief of state.

Saigon's civilian population took the upheaval in stride. People went about their business as usual.

$21,259 Horde Found By Tenant

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The day after his 16-year-old son discovered $21,259 in their rented home, the claim of Mrs. Harriet Morris to the money was disputed.

David Morris found the cash Tuesday night under a loose board in a closet in the Morris' nearby Cuyahoga Falls home. He spied the small metal box containing the money while looking for a ring he dropped.

The owner of the house, Thomas J. LaCasco, who lives next door, said Wednesday night he is claiming the money. "When I bought the house I figured I bought everything in it and I guess I might as well try to get the money."

He has hired an attorney. Mrs. Morris, a mother of three who is a key-punch operator in Akron, has been trying to manage on $270 a month. Her other children are 13 and 8 years old. They have been renting the house since last September.

Mrs. Morris said her total assets when the money was found amounted to $3.

The discovered money was in old bills, from $1 to $20 in denomination. Mrs. Morris turned it over to Cuyahoga Falls police, who counted it and returned the money to her.

Her attorney, Orville Hoover, said the money will be kept in a safety deposit box while attempts are made to find its owner.

'Bama Chief's Ohio Politics Irk Senator

WASHINGTON (AP)—The very thought of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace entering the Ohio presidential primary is repugnant to citizens of Ohio," says Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio.

Young commented Wednesday night on a statement by Wallace that the Democratic Governor would decide by Feb. 4 whether to enter the Ohio's May 5 primary.

"It is hard to believe that a man who has defied the courts of this nation, who has abetted murder and violence in his state would have the effrontery and unlimited gall to aspire to the presidency of this great nation," Young's statement said in part.

"This buffoon in a television program referred to our government as the central government in Washington as if he were a foreigner."

Wallace held a news conference in Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday and said he might enter the Democratic primary in counties that include Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati. He said his purpose would be to show there is sentiment for states rights and the handling of integration problems by the South.

Government Pushes Case Against Hoffa

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—The government continues today with its attempt to link James R. Hoffa to alleged efforts to fix a jury.

Names of two of Hoffa's five codefendants have been partially connected through a series of mysterious telephone calls, and prosecutor James Neal said Wednesday he would connect all six with "one big solid chain of evidence."

Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union, and the others are charged with trying to influence jurors in Hoffa's 1962 trial at Nashville on a charge of conspiracy. The trial ended in a hung jury.

Neal's promise was made after Harvey Silets, attorney for a defendant, Allen Dorfman, had moved for a mistrial or a separate trial for each defendant. "In three days of testimony," Silets said, "the government has not offered one word of testimony or a single exhibit which mentions my client."

The motion was overruled. Ten witnesses and nearly 40 exhibits were presented in U.S. District Court by the government to try to connect Larry Campbell and his uncle, Thomas E. Parks, both defendants, with an alleged effort to influence juror Gratian Fields in Hoffa's conspiracy trial.

Next Saturn Task Readied

Model of Apollo Set for Launching

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Next assignment for the Saturn 1 rocket, newly crowned weight-lifting champion of space, will be to loft into orbit a model of the Apollo man-to-the-moon spacecraft.

The launching, scheduled here in April, will be a step toward the U.S. goal of landing men on the moon in this decade.

Wednesday the Saturn 1 performed flawlessly on its first full-scale test flight, propelling into orbit a 37,700-pound satellite, the world's heaviest. For the first time the rocket generated full first stage thrust of 1.5 million pounds and carried a live second stage powered by liquid hydrogen.

Wernher Von Braun, chief of the Marshall Space Flight Center which is developing the Saturn rockets, said:

"We are now ahead of the Russians in cargo carrying ability. They have orbited payloads on the order of 15,000 pounds. Saturn 1 gives us the capability of orbiting 19,000 to 20,000 useful pounds."

Von Braun estimated the biggest Russian booster rocket has a thrust between 700,000 and 900,000 pounds, and he said there is no evidence the Soviets have made progress with liquid hydrogen fuel for upper stages. He cautioned that Russia's plans are shrouded in secrecy.

The United States is developing the massive 7.5 million-pound-thrust Saturn 5 to hoist three-man astronaut teams to the moon.

The Saturn 1 flight provided valuable experience in handling complex multistage rockets with gigantic power.

Youths Solve Problem of 'Beans in Jar'

NEW YORK (AP)—A flair for math, a knack with slide rules and a dose of gumption paid off for three college boys who tackled a modern version of "how many beans in the jar?"

The "jar" was a 7-foot high plastic tank, shaped something like a football, in the Staten Island Ferry terminal. The idea was to guess how many British Thermal Units of heating capacity it would contain if filled with fuel oil.

The youths figured the volume to within 3 per cent of capacity, even though they couldn't get closer than three feet to the tank. One had to stand on another's shoulders to take sightings on its height.

Their use of the mathematics of probabilities and statistics brought their winning entry to within 3,000 BTUs of the correct answer — 24,889,000 — and gave them second and third prize as well.

Top prize was a compact sedan, second was 500 gallons of fuel oil and third 250 gallons. The boys sold all three for nearly $1,800 and split the money to help pay college expenses.

It began last December when the three saw the contest booth at the terminal. They are Lewis Mandell, 20, a senior at City College, Jeffrey Michaels, 19, a sophomore there, and Arthur Sher, 19, a junior at Brooklyn College. All live on Staten Island.

Ohio School Board Sues Indiana Agency

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The School Board at College Corner, Ohio, has filed suit in U. S. District Court here against the Indiana State Board of Accounts.

The suit, filed Wednesday, resulted from operation by Ohio and Indiana of the Union School, which straddles the border between the two states.

It alleges that the Indiana board ordered the Union County Corp. (school board) to cut off funds last Oct. 2 after a dispute over the ratio of operating payments.

Construction Due This Spring

New Laboratory Addition Planned Here by Du Pont

Construction of a major addition to facilities of the DuPont Company's Circleville Research & Development Laboratory has been authorized, it was announced today.

Dr. Robert L. Burton, laboratory director, said the new project will almost double the size of the laboratory. Construction is scheduled to begin this spring.

Located on the site of the company's "Mylar" polyester film plant here, the laboratory is devoted to improving DuPont films and the processes for their manufacture.

Since its establishment five years ago, the Circleville Laboratory has developed a number of new types of "Mylar." Its product and process innovations have contributed much to the commercial success of the material.

THE NEW addition, scheduled to enclose 5,300 square feet, will take the form of a one-story extension to the south of the present building. It will include offices, research laboratories, other facilities for technical personnel and a special testing laboratory.

"This expansion will not result in a major increase in the staff," Dr. Burton said. "But it will provide the space and equipment we need now and in the immediate future to keep 'Mylar' and our other films ahead in the technological race."

Completion of the construction work before the end of this year is expected.

The Laboratory currently is manned by about 50 persons, half of whom are engineers or scientists.

The planned laboratory addition represents the fifth major expansion undertaken by DuPont as a whole since the Circleville plant was established for production in 1954. The present level of employment stands at more than 800 persons.

Senate Opens Tax Cut Debate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate begins debate today on the $11.6-billion tax cut bill and administration forces are confident it will be passed overwhelmingly, probably late next week.

The Treasury Wednesday released new tables showing what savings the committee's version would mean for a four-person family which files a return with itemized deductions.

The tax cut would be $82 for such a family with $5,000 income, $159 for one in the $7,500 bracket, $287 for one with $12,500 income, and $542 for a $100,000 family.

Ohio Housewife Preps For Round World Flight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 38-year-old Columbus housewife is brushing up on her instrument flying before trying what no woman ever has accomplished—flying an airplane around the world.

Mrs. Jerrie Mock, an active pilot for eight years, says she plans to circle the globe in a single-engine Cessna airplane within the next few weeks.

She plans to fly alone and estimates the trip will take approximately three weeks. "I've had all sorts of offers from other women who want to go with me," she said, "but there just isn't room. I've got so much radio equipment and gasoline aboard, I just couldn't squeeze another person in anywhere, even into the luggage compartment."

It was 27 years ago that Amelia Earhart attempted the trip on what proved to be an ill-fated flight for her and her navigator, Capt. Fred Noonan. Mrs. Mock's proposed route is

Ranger To Arrive Sunday Morning

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The Ranger 6 rocketed toward the moon on a photographic mission today and successfully cleared early hurdles on the planned 66-hour flight.

Ranger 6's assignment is to streak 230,187 miles to the moon, take more than 3,000 pictures of the lunar surface and relay them to earth in a furious ten-minute burst of activity before it crash lands.

The planned impact time is about 4:30 a.m. EST Sunday.

Ranger 6 is the first of four similar payloads planned for launching this year to help locate possible moon landing areas for American astronauts scheduled to make lunar voyages late this decade.

A ten-story tall Atlas-Agena rocket thundered away from Cape Kennedy at 10:49 a.m. EST to start the gold-and-silver-plated spacecraft on its journey.

Nearly an hour later the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced the mammoth rocket apparently had done its job and hurled Ranger 6 outward on its long voyage.

Officials said it may require several hours to determine whether the payload achieved the proper course and speed of about 24,500 m.p.h.

Many possible pitfalls still lay ahead for the spidery spacecraft. Failure to complete any of the tricky tasks could wreck the experiment and the United States could end up with the 12th failure in as many launches in its troubled moon exploration program.

Ranger 6 carried a small course adjustment motor which was scheduled to be fired about 2:50 a.m. EST Friday. Scientists must calculate from the spacecraft's position and pro-

No Horsemeat On Market

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Horsemeat, labeled as "boned beef," has not reached retail outlets, to the best of his knowledge, state Agriculture Director John M. Stackhouse said Wednesday.

There is no evidence that the meat reached even wholesalers for processing, he added.

The horsemeat was identified in Ohio following a bulletin from the federal Food and Drug Administration.

Stackhouse said the meat was packaged in 50-60 pound chunks in cartons labeled "produce of Mexico" and bearing United States inspection stamps.

It is assumed the inspection stamp is fraudulent, he said, and it is possible the "product of Mexico" label also is phony.

of whether hero Glenn would run a better race in November, Young's support slipped away like quick-silver.

"Whom do I favor? Young for devotion, Glenn for a winner."

That comment from an influential county chairman seemed to sum up the privately expressed views of those chairmen who welcomed the entry into politics of the first American to orbit the earth.

The Associated Press obtained the private views of the county chairmen only 10 days after Glenn entered the race under a firm pledge of secrecy unless an individual chairman was willing to be quoted.

The "pro" politicians' view that Glenn might attract more feminine votes was an oft-mentioned factor. They used the term "glamor."

The relative ages of Glenn and Young appear to figure large in the attitude of the party leaders who could help swing the May 5 party primary either way. Young is 74 and Glenn is 42.

Taft, Ohio's GOP congressman-at-large, is 47.

Ten days ago, John Fontana, a Young aide, commented on the Glenn candidacy to the effect that the space hero might have a numerical edge in the number of county chairmen supporting him, "but we have the support where the votes are." He referred to the metropolitan areas of Ohio which produce fully two-thirds of the Democratic vote.

The poll results do not exactly bear out Fontana's contention.

Four chairmen in Ohio's eight metropolitan areas said they favor Young and four expressed a preference for Glenn.

D. E. McDONALD
Candidate for Legislature

David E. (Mac) McDonald, Route 3, today filed nominating petitions as a Republican candidate for the office of state representative in the May primary election.

McDonald was born near New Concord, O., and grew up in that community. He was graduated from Muskingum College in 1937, majoring in business administration and political science.

Following graduation the Republican candidate spent four years in sales promotion work with the Seiberling Rubber Co. of Akron. In June of 1941 he joined the Aviation Cadets.

On completion of his training, he was commissioned and served in various assignments with the U. S. Air Force in the United States and in the European Theater of Operations.

McDONALD was deputy commander of the 50th Fighter Group when discharged in 1945. He then rejoined Seiberling Rubber Co.

In his own words, after a few trips to Circleville he soon discovered a friendly spirit in this community which influenced him to have faith in the future possibility of growth and expansion for the area.

For the past 16 years, McDonald has owned and operated Mac's Tire and Appliance Store on E. Main St. He has been active in civic affairs.

He is a past president of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce, past exalted ruler of the BPO Elks Lodge and past president of the Circleville PTA.

The candidate is a member of various Masonic bodies, Rotary, American Legion and has been active in past political campaigns. He and his family are members of the First Methodist Church.

McDonald and his wife, Mary Helen, live on Dunkel Road. They have three children: David, a junior at Ohio State University; Thomas, a senior at Circleville High School; and Kay, a sophomore at CHS.

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—The 91-year-old Trumbull County jail, object of such remarks as "unfit for human habitation," has had it.

The county commissioners Wednesday ordered Sheriff Robert Barnett to padlock the jail section and not to house any more prisoners there.

There are 24 prisoners in the jail. The Mahoning County jail at Youngstown and the Ashtabula County jail at Jefferson are now being used to house 20 Trumbull County prisoners at $2.75 a day.

The "unfit for human habitation" tag assigned to the jail has come from numerous grand juries over the years.

Eight battalions of marines and paratroopers occupied Saigon before dawn. The approximately 4,500 men were supported by tanks and other armor. But unlike the bloody uprising against Diem three months ago not a shot was fired.

Despite troop concentrations around key government buildings and at many street intersections, traffic moved normally. Many Vietnamese appeared unaware that anything unusual was happening.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was advised of the impending coup Wednesday night and sent an urgent message to Gen. Paul D. Harkins, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, asking him to return to the capital from a field trip, in formed sources said.

U.S. military authorities appeared deeply disturbed.

"This development can only hurt the war effort," said a senior officer. It was the wrong move at the wrong time."

Americans in Saigon forecast another lengthy period of military uncertainty until the government is stabilized.

U.S. sources said the troop movements and power struggle forced the cancellation of a major operation scheduled for dawn against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

Dem Leaders

of whether hero Glenn would run a better race in November, Young's support slipped away like quicksilver.

"Whom do I favor? Young for devotion, Glenn for a winner."

That comment from an influential county chairman seemed to sum up the privately expressed views of those chairmen who welcomed the entry into politics of the first American to orbit the earth.

The Associated Press obtained the private views of the county chairmen only 10 days after Glenn entered the race under a firm pledge of secrecy unless an individual chairman was willing to be quoted.

The "pro" politicians' view that Glenn might attract more feminine votes was an off-mentioned factor. They used the term "glamor."

The relative ages of Glenn and Young appear to figure large in the attitude of the party leaders who could help swing the May 5 party primary either way. Young is 74 and Glenn is 42.

Taft, Ohio's GOP congressman-at-large, is 47.

Ten days ago, John Fontana, a Young aide, commented on the Glenn candidacy to the effect that the space hero might have a numerical edge in the number of county chairmen supporting him, "but we have the support where the votes are." He referred to the metropolitan areas of Ohio which produce fully two-thirds of the Democratic vote.

The poll results do not exactly bear out Fontana's contention.

Four chairmen in Ohio's eight metropolitan areas said they favor Young and four expressed a preference for Glenn.

News of World in Brief

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—The 91-year-old Trumbull County jail, object of such remarks as "unfit for human habitation," has had it.

The county commissioners Wednesday ordered Sheriff Robert Barnett to padlock the jail section and not to house any more prisoners there.

There are 24 prisoners in the jail. The Mahoning County jail at Youngstown and the Ashtabula County jail at Jefferson are now being used to house 20 Trumbull County prisoners at $2.75 a day.

The "unfit for human habitation" tag assigned to the jail has come from numerous grand juries over the years.

YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio (AP)—Antioch College's Committee for Racial Equality claims Lewis Genger, the Yellow Springs barber under court order to end segregation in his shop, has violated the order.

Richard Heitler, a spokesman for the committee, said a "bi-racial test team" visited the shop Tuesday and that Genger refused to cut the hair of Roland Smith, a Negro.

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Republicans attending a big party fund-raising dinner here Wednesday night gave a surprising edge to Richard Nixon over Sen. Barry Goldwater in a presidential straw vote.

Nixon, the GOP standard-bearer in 1960, won 280 votes and Goldwater got 229. Nebraska is considered a political stronghold of the Arizona senator and most party leaders already have come out for him.

LONDON (AP) — President Johnson informed Britain today that U.S. troops will take part in an international peace-keeping force for Cyprus if satisfactory arrangements are made, informed sources reported.

The President's decision was conveyed by U.S. Ambassador David Bruce to Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys, informants added.

The decision came as the Soviet Union stepped up its denunciation of plans to move soldiers from the United States and some other NATO countries to Cyprus to aid the British in preserving the truce between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

HAVANA (AP)—The newspaper Revolution published a front page note Wednesday on a rumor that circulated in Havana and abroad that Prime Minister Fidel Castro had been assassinated.

It said Castro is in perfect health but added that "in Cuba it is perfectly well known that the plans of the CIA—U.S. Central Intelligence Agency—include an attempt against Fidel's life."

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Despite a marathon night session, the jury for the Byron De La Beckwith murder trial was still minus one man and an alternate today.

The overtime period ordered by Circuit Court Judge Leon V. Hendrick, 69, in an effort to speed the process was the third straight night session.

Judge M. M. McGowan, who substituted for Hendrick at the hearing Wednesday night, cut it off at 10 p. m. after 14 men were called in a futile effort to seat the 12th juror.

Beckwith, 43, a fertilizer salesman from Greenwood, is accused of shooting Medgar Evers, a Negro civil rights leader, from ambush.

MORGA, Calif. (AP) — Harassed business executives who feel the need to get away from it all should do just that, says astronaut M. Scott Carpenter.

"Two weeks in orbit would help them immeasurably if they could afford the expense of a space flight," Carpenter told a news conference. "The condition of weightlessness is the most relaxing situation you can imagine."

Carpenter attended a two-day symposium on "The American Businessman in Space."

TOKYO (AP) — The United States is withdrawing a squadron of 20 F102 jet fighters from Japan to the United States before July 1.

The United States announced on Dec. 31 that it planned to withdraw 3,500 Air Force personnel and 2,000 dependents from Japan in a major realignment of its air strength in the Far East.

gress just how much of a motor kick is required to adjust for any trajectory errors and put the voyager on a collision course with the moon. The motor will be ignited by radio command from a tracking station at Goldstone, Calif.

If the payload, which resembles a giant dragonfly, succeeds, it will break a string of 11 straight U.S. moon-launching failures dating to 1958. The flight is the first U.S. lunar attempt since Ranger 5 fizzled in October 1962, prompting a revamping of the program.

The Soviets have announced three moon landings, two of them successful. Lunik 2 crashed onto the moon and Lunik 3 took the first pictures of the moon's hidden side, both in 1959.

In a 10-minute session before Ranger 6 crash-lands on the moon, its six cameras are to snap hundreds of pictures and transmit them to a ground station at Goldstone, Calif. The cameras are to start shooting 900 miles from the moon and continue until an instant before impact.

Project officials said the pictures might enable analysts to distinguish objects on the moon the size of an automobile.

H. M. Schurmeier, Ranger project manager for the space agency's jet propulsion laboratory, said the major goal is to obtain photos of dark areas that from the earth appear to be relatively flat and therefore possible landing spots for astronauts.

More than 40 observatories around the world planned to direct telescopes at the moon in an effort to spot the Ranger 6 impact. When Russia's Lunik 2 hit, a Hungarian observatory reported sighting a dark cloud — perhaps of dust — in the vicinity of the landing area.

from power with Minh were the junta's No. 3 man and defense minister, Maj. Gen. Tran Van Don, and the No. 3 man and armed forces chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Le Van Kim.

Although rumors and conflicting reports kept the situation in confusion, they apparently were shunted aside because they were considered proponents of De Gaulle's proposal for a unified, neutralized Viet Nam.

Khanh in his seizure of power reportedly had the support of the interior minister, Maj. Gen. Ton That Dinh; the information minister, Maj. Gen. Do Mau, and the 3rd Corps commander, Maj. Gen. Le Van Khien.

Eight battalions of marines and paratroopers occupied Saigon before dawn. The approximately 4,500 men were supported by tanks and other armor. But unlike the bloody uprising against Diem three months ago not a shot was fired.

Despite troop concentrations around key government buildings and at many street intersections, traffic moved normally. Many Vietnamese appeared unaware that anything unusual was happening.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was advised of the impending coup Wednesday night and sent an urgent message to Gen. Paul D. Harkins, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, asking him to return to the capital from a field trip, in formed sources said.

U.S. military authorities appeared deeply disturbed.

"This development can only hurt the war effort," said a senior officer. It was the wrong move at the wrong time.

Americans in Saigon forecast another lengthy period of military uncertainty until the government is stabilized.

U.S. sources said the troop movements and power struggle forced the cancellation of a major operation scheduled for dawn against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

Liquor Sales For '63 Listed

Sales at the local State Liquor Store, 108 E. State St., last year amounted to $321,719 as the Ohio Department of Liquor Control set a new annual all-time dollar volume record of $227.5 million.

The figure compared with $322,486 total county sales in 1962. Wholesale orders accounted for $100,015 of the county's newest overall figure, with retail sales amounting to $221,704.

The department at the close of 1963 business was operating 290 directly-supervised stores and 60 contract sales agencies.

Busiest store in Ohio last year from the total dollar sales standpoint was store E-1, Cleveland, which took in $7,050,203 with wholesale orders of $6,780,374 and a $269,829 retail sum.

Surrounding counties total 1963 sales were: Franklin, $17,753,216; Fairfield, $685,245; Fayette, $339,352; and Hocking, $161,623.

Remarks To Lrk a Dieter

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks a man on a diet gets tired of hearing:
"Gee, George, have you been putting on more weight lately?"
"I don't see why you make such a fuss about losing weight. All it takes is a little strength—the strength to push yourself away from the table."
"Why bother to take it off? As soon as you quit starving yourself, it comes right back on."
"If George ever did some real work, he wouldn't have all that blubber on him in the first place."
"You should be like me. No matter how much I stuff myself, I never seem to gain an ounce."

"Maybe you have lost five pounds, George. All I can say is that it still doesn't show."
"I read in a medical journal that only two out of every 100 people who diet themselves slim stay that way—so it looks like you're up against pretty hopeless odds."
"If you didn't have some hidden frustration you probably wouldn't have gotten so fat to begin with. Maybe food is your consolation for some childhood sorrow."
"George has the weirdest dreams lately. Last night, for example, he dreamed he was taking a bath in a tub full of mashed potatoes and coconut custard pudding."

"Why fight it, George? After all, a hippopotamus has just as much fun out of a life as a gazelle. Maybe more."
"I think I'll order the peach parfait for dessert. What'll you have, dear—another radish or a nice carrot?"
"At your age, the more weight you lose the more wrinkles you get in your face."
"You mean your doctor only lets you have 1,200 calories a day? My doctor lets me have 1,800 on my diet—and the pounds are simply melting off."
"You're doing fine, George. If you keep on losing an ounce a day, you'll be down to normal weight in about a year and a half—give or take a month."

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP)—Business has caught its second breath in the current long upswing and this week is showing it where it counts: increased earnings. The reports are impressive and reassuring.
Profits are at record highs for a long list of companies, large and small. Most reflect increased sales and production. Cost cutting and automation play a big part.
Also reassuring for the immediate future is that for many corporations the big gain in profits over the previous year came in the final months of 1963. Executives say they expect the trend to continue for a while. The profit boosts came after a breather in the early months of 1963.
Some leading industries are almost unanimous in reporting record or at least greatly improved earnings: steel, oil, railroads, business machines and utilities. Giants in the motors, glass and chemical industries report good gains in 1963. Some of these climbed to record heights.

The flood of annual statements is just starting. But early reports of some companies and those of many with fiscal years ending before the calendar one give a preview. The final tally seems sure to show that 1963 was the best year yet for business profits in aggregate.
Among the biggest saying 1963 easily topped 1962 are General Motors, AT&T, Jersey Standard Oil, U.S. Steel, IBM, Du Pont, Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads, and Consolidated Edison and Public Service E&G utilities. Other giants among the steels so far to report better earnings than in 1962 are Republic, National, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Inland, Armco.

Big oil companies enjoying a more profitable year include Texaco, Socony Mobil, Shell, Gulf, Cities Service, Sinclair, Sun, Marathon, Phillips.
International Harvester, Caterpillar Tractor, Massey-Ferguson, Johns Manville, Carrier, Monsanto Chemical, Koppers, Firestone all report increased earnings. So do Douglas Aircraft and Continental Airlines.
The wide lead of increases over declines for business as a whole affirms the health of the economy at the moment. It also shows that many companies have learned to translate increased production and sales into higher profits—something a lot of them didn't do a year earlier. And it also bolsters the confidence with which many face 1964 and plan for future growth.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

Two-thirds of all human beings in the world suffer from outright hunger and starvation every day of their lives.
One of the major targets of scientists, physicians, sociologists and agriculturalists is the problem of malnutrition that exists everywhere.
It is strange and sadly paradoxical that malnutrition should be so prevalent in the presence of the magnificent strides in medicine that have been made since the turn of the century.
These accomplishments are responsible for a marked reduction in infancy and childhood deaths. Control of infection with antibiotics and new surgical technique for heart disease and cancer contribute, too, to an increase life span.
An expanding population brings into immediate focus the need for supplying adequate nutrition to the many millions given the additional years of life.
Dr. Fredrick J. Stare of Harvard University, an internationally famous expert on nutrition, states: "Nutritional diseases are responsible for more than half of all deaths in children two to five years of age in many parts of the world. Yet they are completely preventable. Milk will prevent and treat these diseases. So will mixtures of certain cereals and various legumes (peas, beans, and other vegetables)."
According to Dr. Stare: "Nutritional deficiencies are closely related to the population explosion. The tragedy of it is that the population increases are most dramatically noted in areas of the world where food productivity is still extremely limited."

The Third National Conference on World Health concentrated its attention on the massive problem of international malnutrition. Health agencies and public health officials of almost every country encouraged the formation of the conference in Washington and took part in its discussions.
It is imperative that international research discover means of increasing the production of proteins—meat, milk, and food supplements—so that unnecessary illness and death from starvation will be eliminated.
Educational programs to change dietary habits, new means of distributing foods and soliciting community interest in the problem can, with time and effort, eradicate starvation.
Many technological advances can be used to increase this food production.
One of the significant contributions of the conference was the proposition that an international biological and medical research center be established in Bethesda, Md. It would be "dedicated to international co-operation an collaboration in the interests of health and mankind."
Congressman John E. Forgy (Dem.-R.I.) said: "The center would be associated with the National Institutes of Health and would represent the visible and tangible embodiment of the nations' devotion to the use of science for peaceful purpose and the good of mankind."
An era that boasts of flights toward the moon, nuclear fission and supersonic international travel must not be identified with poverty, ignorance, and starvation.
Kimberley, birthplace of the diamond industry, is a neat, modern city of about 80,000 standing on open veld, 265 miles southwest of Johannesburg, in the heart of the Republic of South Africa.

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO
William L. Cook, Park Place, was appointed a Pickaway County Auxiliary Deputy Sheriff by County Common Pleas Judge William Ammer.

The Pickaway County Chapter of the American Red Cross held a blood program meeting at the Methodist Church.

Mrs. David Turner, Marietta, the former Nancy Ann Senbrenner, presented a vocal recital at the Marietta Music Club.

TEN YEARS AGO
Mrs. Galen Mowery was in charge of a program which featured a Hobo Convention when the Mt. Pleasant Grange met.

The Blue Ribbon Dairy announced that milk had been reduced one cent a quart.

Mrs. Edmund Landis, Route 1, returned home from Chicago where she had visited with relatives the past several months.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
M. A. Yates, manager of a N. Court St., service station, reported to police that $7 had been stolen from the cash register at his station.

A meeting was planned to organize a Disabled American Veterans of the World War Chapter.

Miss Anna M. Schleyer entertained students of her intermediate piano class with a party.

Dead Touch the Living

By John Chamberlain

Irving Fisher, the ingenious Yale economist who liked to play around with such concepts as the "commodity dollar," had ideas about a "national efficiency" that would promote such universal health that practically all citizens would live to become centenarians. One day, walking down the street, he turned in a moment of exuberance to his friend, Albert G. Keller, the famous sociologist.
"Keller," he asked, "wouldn't you like to live forever?"
"No," said Keller, "I don't want to outlive my friends."
I am reminded of this conversation every time an old friend dies. A couple of weeks ago it was the turn of Frank Hanighen, a cherished friend of forty years, to go. This gave me a most poignant wrench, for, like most other people who have read the extremely effective Washington, D. C., newsletter, "Human Events," over a period of eighteen years, I had thought of Frank, its editor and founder, as being an indispensable pillar of the conservative movement in the United States. His publication had never had a wide audience, but, like the liberal "Nation" and "New Republic" of the nineteen twenties, it had had a bull's-eye effect, carrying its influence straight to the target of people like Styles Bridges and Barry Goldwater in the U. S. Senate, and to editors and editorial writers all over the land. Frank Hanighen nerved up key conservatives everywhere, giving encouragement to them when they felt defeated, providing them with important ammunition when they were on their road to some victory. There would hardly have been a strong conservative revival without him.
The penalty of reaching middle age is that when a Frank Hanighen dies one feels more and more like giving old A. G. Keller's answer to the Irving Fishers who are always with us. I am not yet in a position where I have outlived my friends, but one by one my teachers are disappearing. The death of Frank Hanighen calls up the shades of a score of people who made me think as I do, and I would have sworn that each death, as it came to pass, had worked an irreparable injury to the conservative—or libertarian—cause in America.

I think of George Sokolsky, the pioneer conservative columnist. I think of Forrest Davis, an old editorial colleague whose "The Atlantic System," published in the late Thirties, pulled me out of isolationism by making me see the importance of the West as a cultural and political entity that would stand or fall as a unit. I think of Simeon Strunsky, the matchless but unfortunately anonymous daily "Topics" editorialist of the New York Times, who used to rap my knuckles in kindly fashion whenever I expressed hope for "the Russian experiment."
I think of Dorothy Thompson, who also lectured me in kindly fashion for saying idiotic things. I think of Isabel Paterson, whose book, "The God of the Machine," has had such a subterranean corrective influence on people who had either forgotten or had never learned that socialism or State planning of industry is incompatible with the "long circuit of energy" that is needed to keep innovation going. I think of witty Ben Stolberg, whose shrewd eye never missed a trick whenever there was any Leftist skulduggery afoot.
As I say, I would have sworn that the conservative—or libertarian—movement could not survive the deaths of these and other brave souls who withstood the collectivist tide when few were listening. But, of course, it's an illusion to think anybody is indispensable. Frank Hanighen of "Human Events" may be dead, but Frank left hundreds of young disciples.
This is what makes the movements that shape history a "seamless web." I know it to be true from personal experience. The last words I heard my father say last September before he died in a hospital of a heart attack were, "Do you think Barry Goldwater can make it?" My father had done considerable drum-beating for the conservative cause. When messages of sympathy came af-

The Third National Conference on World Health concentrated its attention on the massive problem of international malnutrition. Health agencies and public health officials of almost every country encouraged the formation of the conference in Washington and took part in its discussions.

It is imperative that international research discover means of increasing the production of proteins—meat, milk, and food supplements—so that unnecessary illness and death from starvation will be eliminated.

Educational programs to change dietary habits, new means of distributing foods and soliciting community interest in the problem can, with time and effort, eradicate starvation.

Many technological advances can be used to increase this food production. One of the significant contributions of the conference was the proposition that an international biological and medical research center be established in Bethesda, Md. It would be "dedicated to international cooperation an collaboration in the interests of health and mankind."

Congressman John E. Fogarty (Dem.-R.I.) said: "The center would be associated with the National Institutes of Health and would represent the visible and tangible embodiment of the nations' devotion to the use of science for peaceful purpose and the good of mankind."

An era that boasts of flights toward the moon, nuclear fission and supersonic international travel must not be identified with poverty, ignorance, and starvation.

Dead Touch the Living

By John Chamberlain

Irving Fisher, the ingenious Yale economist who liked to play around with such concepts as the "commodity dollar," had ideas about a "national efficiency" that would promote such universal health that practically all citizens would live to become centenarians. One day, walking down the street, he turned in a moment of exuberance to his friend, Albert G. Keller, the famous sociologist.

"Keller," he asked, "wouldn't you like to live forever?"

"No," said Keller, "I don't want to outlive my friends. I am reminded of this conversation every time an old friend dies. A couple of weeks ago it was the turn of Frank Hanighen, a cherished friend of forty years, to go. This gave me a most poignant wrench, for, like most other people who have read the extremely effective Washington, D. C., newsletter, "Human Events," over a period of eighteen years, I had thought of Frank, its editor and founder, as being an indispensable pillar of the conservative movement in the United States. His publication had never had a wide audience, but, like the liberal "Nation" and "New Republic" of the nineteen twenties, it had had a bull's-eye effect, carrying its influence straight to the target of people like Styles Bridges and Barry Goldwater in the U. S. Senate, and to editors and editorial writers all over the land. Frank Hanighen nerved up key conservatives everywhere, giving encouragement to them when they felt defeated, providing them with important ammunition when they were on their road to some victory. There would hardly have been a strong conservative revival without him.

The penalty of reaching middle age is that when a Frank Hanighen dies one feels more and more like giving old A. G. Keller's answer to the Irving Fishers who are always with us. I am not yet in a position where I have outlived my friends, but one by one my teachers are disappearing. The death of Frank Hanighen calls up the shades of a score of people who made me think as I do, and I would have sworn that each death, as it came to pass, had worked an irreparable injury to the conservative — or libertarian — cause in America.

I think of George Sokolsky, the pioneer conservative columnist. I think of Forrest Davis, an old editorial colleague whose "The Atlantic System," published in the late Thirties, pulled me out of isolationism by making me see the importance of the West as a cultural and political entity that would stand or fall as a unit. I think of Simeon Strunsky, the matchless but unfortunately anonymous daily "Topics" editorialist of the New York Times, who used to rap my knuckles in kindly fashion whenever I expressed hope for "the Russian experiment."

I think of Dorothy Thompson, who also lectured me in kindly fashion, for saying idiotic things. I think of Isabel Paterson, whose book, "The God of the Machine," has had such a subterranean corrective influence on people who had either forgotten or had never learned that socialism or State planning of industry is incompatible with the "long circuit of energy" that is needed to keep innovation going. I think of witty Ben Stolberg, whose shrewd eye never missed a trick whenever there was any Leftist skulduggery afoot.

As I say, I would have sworn that the conservative — or libertarian — movement could not survive the deaths of these and other brave souls who understood the collectivist tide when few were listening. But, of course, it's an illusion to think anybody is indispensable. Frank Hanighen of "Human Events" may be dead, but Frank left hundreds of young disciples.

This is what makes the movements that shape history a "seamless web." I know it to be true from personal experience. The last words I heard my father say last September before he died in a hospital of a heart attack were, "Do you think Barry Goldwater can make it?" My father had done considerable drum-beating for the conservative cause. When messages of sympathy came after his death, most of them were from his own generation. But there was a sprinkling from young law school students who had heard him speak. Young men of 23 were agreeing with an old man of 82.

So even the widely separated generation touch. And, when I see them touch, I feel like Irving Fisher, not A. G. Keller. I want to live forever, to make new friends and to see what happens."

Du Pont Employees Compile Outstanding Safety Record

Circleville Du Pont employees can be justifiable proud of their company's outstanding safety record in 1963.

The plant here, employing more than 800 area residents, has operated more than 5½ million exposure hours and 3½ years without a time losing injury.

These achievements have earned the Award of Honor from the National Safety Council for the Circleville plant. It marks the 20th such award for the company as a whole, a record in the industrial world.

Setting a two-way safety record in 1963, Du Pont employees across the nation are aware they are 22 times safer at work than off the job. The results were applauded by Lamont du Pont Copeland, president of the company, in a communication hailing the record as "the best in the history of the company."

Such success is stimulating because it is progress, he told employees. But he issued a "challenge to do better" because "the most significant thing is not the record we make but the lives we save and the distressing injuries we prevent."

Year-end tabulations showed employees beat their previous best rate by about 10 per cent, and for the first time in company history went through the year without a fatality at work. They also chopped down their off-the-job injury rate.

Du Pont has approximately 100,000 employees and they finished the year with 54 time-losing injuries on the job, a rate considered infinitesimally low. The rate was approximately 0.28 per million man-hours as compared with 0.31 the year before.

Du Pont people not only faced the usual hazards of normal living but the added ones of working with a wide assortment of chemicals, dynamite, heavy equipment and other hazards in industrial production. However, so extreme are the precautions that most of their injuries were caused by carelessness: dropped tools, hitting thumb instead of nail, falls, neglecting to turn off equipment when fixing, auto accidents and the like.

Copeland also wrote that with the new low rate "we were able to break through the statistical plateau we have been on the past 10 years."

That plateau has been puzzling to Du Pont management, which works on the principle that there should never be any injury to an employee. But for the past 10 years the injury rate simply stuck between 0.30 and 0.40 and would not budge below that. Although that is low by any comparison (chemical industry average is 3.31, all industry is 6.19), it was frustrating that despite all the effort made, it seemed impossible to break through that lower barrier. Now the problem will be to get it lower yet.

With this went a decline in off-the-job injuries among employees. These are the accidents such as falls around the house, tangling with the lawn mower, accidents from swimming and other sports, automobile accidents and the like.

The company has had a program for years to cut down these injuries also. Although the rate was far above the one at work, it dropped from 6.24 per million hours of exposure in 1962 to 6.03 for last year.

Abortion Ring Under Probe

Woman, 23, Dies After Operation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Detectives reported today they expect to crush a large-scale abortion ring after a 23-year-old woman died following an illegal operation.

Detective Chief Herman Beck said a major break could come at any time and that several persons have been arrested. He described the ring as well-organized with six members. Authorities said they had only meager clues until a close friend of the woman who died provided key information.

They identified the victim as Mrs. Belva (Jeanie) Beard of Columbus, the daughter of a minister. She was admitted at first to St. Ann Hospital in critical condition last Saturday.

Detectives said the close friend who posed as her brother said the attractive mother of one child became ill Friday, the day after she had undergone an abortion attempt.

Transferred to Mt. Carmel Hospital later, Mrs. Beard died Sunday from a massive blood infection which doctors say frequently is caused by non-sterile instruments by criminal abortionists.

Detectives Tuesday arrested Mrs. Ruby Jewell Cartwright, 24, of Columbus. They described her as a registered practical nurse but currently not working.

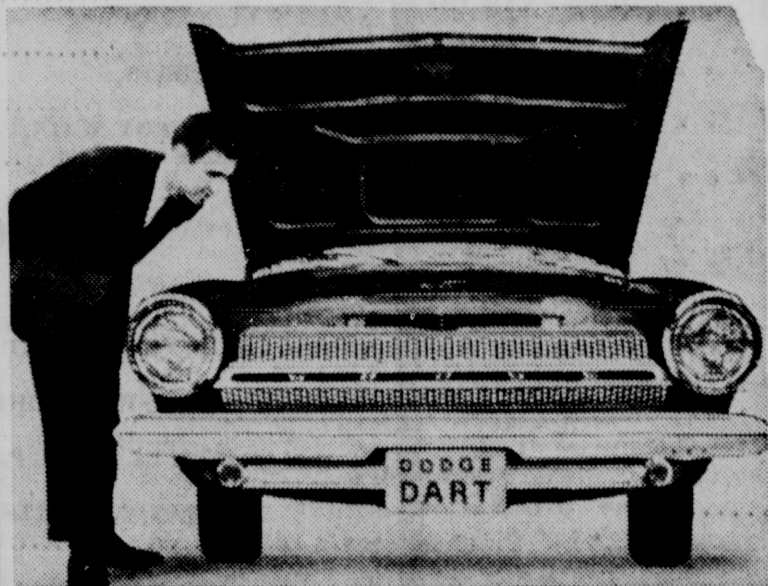

Authorities said they confiscated a satchel full of medical instruments which could be used as abortion tools. Police also found other medications. Capt. Beck said Mrs. Cartwright is being held as a material witness and that she will be charged with first-degree manslaughter and possession of abortion tools.

Authorities said the operation was performed somewhere in a motel on U.S. 40 in Licking County.

A brother of the victim said Mrs. Beard's husband is hospitalized and that his sister apparently feared she could not bear the financial burden of another child.

Unusual Ways To Plan Special Party

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

A party is a party is a party—or is it? That is the question! Some parties are the talk of the town for weeks after they're held. Others create nary a ripple on the social tide.

What makes the difference? Any number of things! First, a good party calls for a congenial crowd.

This means the hostess must know how to pick and choose, how to mix and match friends to make interesting conversational groupings.

Second, her refreshments must be excellent. Good food is an important ingredient for successful entertaining.

Third, a party should have a conversation piece, something that's different, that people will talk about when they leave.

This surprise ingredient could be in the entertainment line—a novel parlor game or a new and witty recording.

It could more easily be something in the way of decoration as for example, a fabulous table setting that's worth talking about.

For example, a recent party that was held to show off patterns of American-made melamine plastic dinnerware was the talk of the town because of its table settings. They were exceptionally original.

There were 50 in all—one for each table of guests. Each saluted a different state.

The idea is one that could be adapted nicely on a smaller scale by any hostess.

The state table settings were keyed to state flowers and birds, famous products and industries, historic events and landmarks.

On a personal basis, a table setting might pay tribute to the hobby, job, home state or accomplishments of the host or of the guest of honor.

It could take note of a holiday or special occasion, such as a birthday or anniversary.

It could be something as simple as flowers, but flowers so imaginatively and cleverly arranged as to provoke comment.

A table setting worth talking about is a real eye-catcher, one guests will not soon forget, one they will try to emulate when they entertain.

It's a very definite plus value for the hostess who wants to rate "E" for Excellence in Entertaining.

Ever use bacon drippings instead of butter or margarine for seasoning snap beans?

Dear Abby: Leaning on an Excuse?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Please pass this on to other fat people who are constantly "kidded" about their weight: I am overweight and know it. But it isn't because I eat too much. I have a thyroid condition which the doctors cannot control. A fellow sent the following message to me through another employee: "If you lost 30 pounds I could become interested in you." I sent word back, "And when YOU become perfect, I might become interested in you, too."

DEAR ABBY: A former boy friend GAVE me his high school graduation ring. I think he said he paid $16 for it. We quit going together and he now wants his ring back. I told him he GAVE it to me and now it was MINE. I want to keep it as a remembrance as it has sentimental value. He offered to BUY it from me. I told him if he wanted the ring that bad he could order another one just like it, but he wants the one I have. I still don't want to part with it. Should I let him buy it off me or should I keep it, or should I give it back?

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a clergyman and he is too soft-hearted to complain, but I think it's time somebody spoke up about the way the members of a congregation abuse their clergyman. We have people coming to our home all the time for private conferences with my husband. He is not a psychiatrist and he shouldn't have to be the referee for family battles, either. He has his hands full trying to do all the things a conscientious clergyman must do, which include weddings, funerals, Sunday school classes, regular sick calls, his sermons and then all the civic functions he must attend. I think he is being taken advantage of when people bring him their personal problems. He gives so much of himself to strangers he hardly has time for his family. If you print this, keep me anonymous for obvious reasons. Thank you.

DEAR ABBY: Your husband's profession demands that he must listen to a certain amount of "personal problems." Don't add to his burden by protesting too much. His job is tough enough.

DEAR ABBY: It's true, "Even a clock that isn't working is right twice a day." But who wants to rely on a clock that isn't working?

AAUW Charter Member Presented Farewell Gift

The American Association of University Women met in the home of Mrs. David Edwards, 620 Garden Parkway, where Mrs. Carl Heffelfinger, president, presented a farewell gift to charter member Mrs. Enid Denham in recognition of her service to the branch.

Mrs. William Stout, Mrs. Robert Lund and Mrs. Kenneth Knox, were welcomed as guests.

Mrs. Thomas Downing, world problems representative, announced that Bolivia would be the topic at the next study group meeting. Mrs. Harold Whitmore, community problems representative, told of plans for a short study group dealing with aging. The group will meet the first three Mondays in March.

Mrs. J. R. Harrell read the names of the nominating committee composed of: Mrs. Eugene Petty, chairman; Mrs. Daniel Crabtree, Mrs. William Sprague, Mrs. Milford Tassler, Mrs. Robert Hendricks and Miss Carolyn Fudge, alternate. The officers to be filled are vice president, program, vice president membership, and treasurer.

Mrs. Hewitt Harmount, program implementation chairman, introduced the speaker, A.A.U.W. member, Mrs. William Sprague whose topic was "The Changing Beat". Mrs. Sprague's talk dealt with today's pulsating changing cultural interests. Her discussion of music ranged from Leonard Bernstein's recently completed Third Symphony to jazz.

Speaking on art, Mrs. Sprague discussed current trends and notable exhibits. An event of particular interest is the jewelry exhibit of cubist artist George Brach, which is presently touring the United States.

The speaker pointed out that this was the year for freedom in writing and publishing and proceeded to discuss some current literature. In her evaluation of contemporary theatre she delved deeply into off Broadway theatre in particular, a current play, "Dragon's Mouth". In this play, the four characters bring their souls in harsh and revealing self examination. Mrs. Sprague assumed the role of each character and gave a thrilling portrayal of the production.

Concluding the program, refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. J. L. Chilcote, Mrs. Harold Whitmore, Mrs. Edward Taylor and Mrs. Dick Tootle.

Unusual Ways To Plan Special Party

Third, a party should have a conversation piece, something that's different, that people will talk about when they leave.

This surprise ingredient could be in the entertainment line—a novel parlor game or a new and witty recording.

It could more easily be something in the way of decoration as for example, a fabulous table setting that's worth talking about.

For example, a recent party that was held to show off patterns of American-made melamine plastic dinnerware was the talk of the town because of its table settings. They were exceptionally original.

There were 50 in all—one for each table of guests. Each saluted a different state.

The idea is one that could be adapted nicely on a smaller scale by any hostess.

The state table settings were keyed to state flowers and birds, famous products and industries, historic events and landmarks.

On a personal basis, a table setting might pay tribute to the hobby, job, home state or accomplishments of the host or of the guest of honor.

It could take note of a holiday or special occasion, such as a birthday or anniversary.

It could be something as simple as flowers, but flowers so imaginatively and cleverly arranged as to provoke comment.

A table setting worth talking about is a real eye-catcher, one guests will not soon forget, one they will try to emulate when they entertain.

It's a very definite plus value for the hostess who wants to rate "E" for Excellence in Entertaining.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Leaning on an Excuse?

DEAR ABBY: Please pass this on to other fat people who are constantly "kidded" about their weight: I am overweight and know it. But it isn't because I eat too much. I have a thyroid condition which the doctors cannot control. A fellow sent the following message to me through another employee: "If you lost 30 pounds I could become interested in you." I sent word back, "And when YOU become perfect, I might become interested in you, too."

DEAR ABBY: You could be right—but you could also be rationalizing. Only you and your physician know. On the other hand, 30 pounds is a cheap price for a little romance.

DEAR ABBY: A former boy friend GAVE me his high school graduation ring. I think he said he paid $16 for it. We quit going together and he now wants his ring back. I told him he GAVE it to me and now it was MINE. I want to keep it as a remembrance as it has sentimental value. He offered to BUY it from me. I told him if he wanted the ring that bad he could order another one just like it, but he wants the one I have. I still don't want to part with it. Should I let him buy it off me or should I keep it, or should I give it back?

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a clergyman and he is too soft-hearted to complain, but I think it's time somebody spoke up about the way the members of a congregation abuse their clergyman. We have people coming to our home all the time for private conferences with my husband. He is not a psychiatrist and he shouldn't have to be the referee for family battles, either. He has his hands full trying to do all the things a conscientious clergyman must do, which include weddings, funerals, Sunday school classes, regular sick calls, his sermons and then all the civic functions he must attend. I think he is being taken advantage of when people bring him their personal problems. He gives so much of himself to strangers he hardly has time for his family. If you print this, keep me anonymous for obvious reasons. Thank you.

CLERGYMAN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Your husband's profession demands that he must listen to a certain amount of "personal problems." Don't add to his burden by protesting too much. His job is tough enough.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BEL AIR ROAD: It's true, "Even a clock that isn't working is right twice a day." But who wants to rely on a clock that isn't working?

DEAR ABBY: I have a question for you. I am a single mother and I have a 10-year-old son. I am considering getting married again. I am wondering if it is wise to get married again when I have a child. I am wondering if it is wise to get married again when I have a child.

General Telephone Planning Capital Additions in 1964

General Telephone Co. of Ohio will put $11.8 - million in capital additions this year to expand and improve its state-wide operations, it announced today.

Clare E. Williams of Marion, president, said the company reached 100 per cent dial operation last December. As a result the 1964 program will allow more concentration in improving facilities of General Telephone's 200 dial offices in 70 counties.

In 1964 major emphasis is being put on reducing the number of customers on rural party lines. Also planned is continued expansion of direct distance dialing and all - number calling (ANC) phone numbering. In addition, five new central office buildings are in the plans.

President Williams foresees 1964 as a period of favorable growth. He cited continued industrial and residential growth and demands for new and improved communications facilities as the basis for General's nearly $1-million-a-month capital expansion program.

Some 580 major specific improvement projects have been engineered for 1964. Hundreds of additional routine projects also are on the worksheet, he noted.

Among the chief projects, the company's new general office building in Marion is nearing completion. The contemporary, three - level structure is to be ready for mid-year occupancy. General of Ohio expects to gain 11,500 new telephones this year, boosting its total to 282,400. As Ohio's largest independent telephone company, it presently serves more than 270,500 telephones.

At the end of 1963, General's plant investment exceeded $111-million, and by year-end 1964, it will be more than $120-million, Williams noted.

The rural party line reduction program, started in 1963, will be completed by August, 1965. It calls for no more than eight customers on a residential rural line.

So far, sufficient facilities have been added to 71 exchanges to limit rural lines to eight or less customers, he said. About 30 per cent of General of Ohio's customers reside in rural territory, and are affected by this improvement.

Five new central office buildings are being constructed to house new replacement dial systems in five exchanges. They include: Amsterdam (Jefferson County), Ney (Defiance), Pioneer (Williams), Union Furnace (Hocking), and Wilkesville (Vinton).

A new direct distance dialing center is being constructed at Celina. Scheduled for completion in September, this new facility will provide nationwide direct dialing for the Celina-St. Marys' area.

General of Ohio, a subsidiary of General Telephone & Electronics Corp., provides communications service for more than 650 Ohio cities and communities. General offices are in Marion, with division offices in Marion, New Philadelphia and Portsmouth.

Cost of Living Goes Up Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mainly because of weather damage to vegetable crops, the cost of living rose two-tenths of one per cent last month, the Labor Department said in reporting an unusual increase in December prices.

It was only the third time in the last 10 years that the cost of living rose in December, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said. The rise took the consumer price index to 107.6. This meant it took $10.76 to purchase items that cost $10 in the 1957-59 base period.

At the end of 1963, General's plant investment exceeded $111-million, and by year-end 1964, it will be more than $120-million, Williams noted.

The rural party line reduction program, started in 1963, will be completed by August, 1965. It calls for no more than eight customers on a residential rural line.

So far, sufficient facilities have been added to 71 exchanges to limit rural lines to eight or less customers, he said. About 30 per cent of General of Ohio's customers reside in rural territory, and are affected by this improvement.

Five new central office buildings are being constructed to house new replacement dial systems in five exchanges. They include: Amsterdam (Jefferson County), Ney (Defiance), Pioneer (Williams), Union Furnace (Hocking), and Wilkesville (Vinton).

A new direct distance dialing center is being constructed at Celina. Scheduled for completion in September, this new facility will provide nationwide direct dialing for the Celina-St. Marys' area.

Charting Group 'Moves' Island

TURNER AIR FORCE BASE, Ga., (AP)—Moving the Grand Bahama Island could be listed as one accomplishment for the men of the 1370th.

The shift was done on maps after the Atlantic Missile Range was surveyed by the 1370th Photo Mapping Wing of the Air Photographic and Charting Service.

'Bama Chief Denied Visit By UofC Aide

CINCINNATI (AP)—A second Southern governor has been ruled out as a speaker on a Cincinnati college campus because of his opposition to racial integration.

Plans to invite Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama to speak Feb. 11 at the University of Cincinnati were dropped reluctantly Wednesday by the Conservative Young Americans for Freedom (YAF) student chapter.

Jeffery Spragens, YAF chairman, charged that the university administration pressured chapter advisor Raymond F. Eling not to issue the invitation to Wallace. University policies allow advisors to have the final say on outside campus speakers.

Ralph C. Bursiek, dean and vice president of UC, said he knew of no one in the administration who said that Wallace could not appear on the campus.

Earlier this month, ex-Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi was denied permission to speak at Xavier University because of his outspoken views against integration.

The invitation was issued by a student while Barnett still was governor but was ordered withdrawn by Xavier officials.

This project, born of need to meet precise guidance requirements of missiles, sharpened considerably the accuracy of the Atlantic range by uncovering mapping errors.

The found Grand Bahama six miles out of position on maps then in use; Cuba misplaced by sixth-tenths of a mile and other points erroneously located on maps.

One major survey of the 1370th was charting of the North Atlantic to link accurately the North American and European continents. Covering 2,000 miles it was accurate within 34 feet.

"It provides the basic geodetic link for our missile strategy," said Col. Kendall S. Young, commander of the 1370th.

From polar icecaps to desolate peaks in South America; from New Guinea jungles to barren Pacific atolls — the men of the 1370th measure the world, bit by bit.

Sometimes it's lonely. "For five months I saw only one bird," said M. Sgt. Thomas Fenton telling of his experiences on Greenland's icecap. Ground crews of three men usually spend about three months at a station, living in tents.

Sometimes there's too much company. "A whole tribe of natives, painted and armed with spears, bows and arrows, surrounded our three-man station on an island near New Guinea," Col. Hugh W. Bell said.

"They were obviously disturbed about something."

So were the three Air Force crewmen.

"To keep the tribesmen from exploding, the ground crew gave away nearly all their food," Bell said.

The men of the 1370th still have plenty of work ahead. Only about 40 per cent of the globe has been mapped.

Chinese Communist Leaders Single Out LBJ for Attacks

By F. K. WU
Central Press Association
Correspondent

HONG KONG — Hearing only the soft words of American presidents, but never seeing them wielding the big stick, Communist leaders in Peiping have singled out President Lyndon B. Johnson for special attacks as the "representative of the extreme reactionary wing in the United States."

The Peiping radio and press have re-affirmed the stand of "opposition to the United States to the end," it being started from the time of President Truman and carried through Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy. All four American presidents are branded as foes of Chinese Communism.

Another reason why the Peiping regime dislikes President Johnson more than his three predecessors is that on his trip to the Far East in May 1961, he, as then vice president, assured the anti-Communist leaders in the Orient of American support.

Moreover, President Johnson, according to the People's Daily, "is determined to follow the dual stand of President Kennedy in the policy of aggression by American imperialism and the policy of war, which are immutable."

Observers here pointed out that the Chinese Communists have to place before the masses the image of Uncle Sam as the chief enemy retarding their unification of China because of "American occupation of Formosa (Taiwan)" and military aid to India, South Korea, South Vietnam and Thailand just as devastating as "The three successive years of natural disaster" (from 1959 to 1961, inclusive).

In other words, the Peiping administration has to find excuses for its many frustrations and snafus, especially along economic and agricultural lines. Previously, its major failures were steel refining undertaken in homes and backyards, and sowing in close formation in desperate attempts to increase agricultural products.

Anti-American agitations in Red China are being rubbed in on the people to enable them to forget their hardships in the face of an external bogeyman and to increase production, although the masses remain largely indifferent and wonder why the United States is dubbed in one breath as the "most ferocious enemy" and paradoxically a "paper tiger" in another.

One of the cause for the antagonism between Communist China and Soviet Russia is the latter's surrender to "American imperialism contrary to Marxism and Leninism."

According to the Kung Sheng Daily News, Peiping's difficulty with Moscow has given rise to the demands of some American merchants and politicians that the United States should take advantage of the rift to conciliate Red China by recognizing it and resuming trade relations, but this local vernacular daily believes that American conciliation would be interpreted as weakness and would strengthen further anti-American clamors.

The same newspaper explained that the Mao Tse-tung government is pursuing an anti-American policy because of talks of certain political figures advocating a simultaneous recognition of the Peiping regime of President Eisenhower's readiness for a sit-down chat with Red China as far back as August 1, 1958, and of President Truman's dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur for championing a blockade of the China coast and bombing of Manchuria (northeast China) during the Korean war.

It is believed here that Peiping might drop its anti-American policy if all the U. S. armed forces in Formosa and adjacent waters and American military aid to Far Eastern countries were withdrawn, and if the United States were willing to sell strategic materials to mainland China.

To challenge the United States and other countries, including Soviet Russia, the Chinese Communist regime is exerting every effort to explode an atomic or nuclear bomb in the near future.

At least such a possibility is assumed by some political figures in the western democracies, who, therefore, urge appeasement to Red China in order to rid it of its goals of world revolution and subversive activities.

However, such likelihood is ruled out by Prof. Wu Chinhsing, who taught civil engineering for several years in Canton, on the ground that nuclear physicists have been under close surveillance since their open criticism of Chinese Communism at the invitation of Chairman Mao Tse-tung, and would not endeavor to produce any atomic weapons.

"Anyway, Red China lacks the resources and facilities that would turn out nuclear bombs, missiles and rockets," the professor said. "One leading scientist, Chien Hsueh-hin, who was trained in the United States, took the lead in voicing dissatisfaction with the Peiping re-

Cleveland's Racial Unrest Is Continuing

CLEVELAND (AP)—The spotlight in Cleveland's worsening school integration troubles moved today to Murray Hill School in the "Little Italy" district today where more picketing was planned by civil rights groups who clashed with whites at two other East Side schools.

Meanwhile, the School Board, which met Wednesday at the scene of picketing at Memorial School, said there would be no change in its position "pending the study now being conducted by the Citizens Council on Human Relations appointed by the board."

The United Freedom Movement, a civil rights group, interpreted the statement as closing the door on negotiations in the dispute over integration of Negro pupils transported by bus to the three predominately white schools.

Some 800 pupils are transported daily from heavily overcrowded Hazelwood School, located in a predominantly Negro neighborhood. Until the present semester these pupils were kept together in classrooms at Murray Hill, Memorial and William E. Brett Elementary School.

A board plan for limited "diffusion" of the Negro pupils in the white schools has drawn the fire of the UFM and the Hazelwood Parents Association and also has been attacked by parents of white children in the receiving schools. The civil rights groups want full integration, and protesting white parents say they don't want any mixing.

Rhodes Tries Shakeup of Parole Agency

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Governor's Office has announced it will attempt to rid the state's Pardon and Parole offices of "a source of friction" by reassigning and reclassifying two top posts.

John M. McElroy, assistant to Gov. James A. Rhodes, announced the shakeup Wednesday.

He said Roger A. Valentine, executive secretary of the Pardon and Parole Commission, will be reassigned to the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction Friday.

Also involved is Rowland R. Lutz, supervisor of the Bureau of Pardon and Parole. But his situation is not too clear.

Terming Lutz "a source of friction" in the system, McElroy said he requested a personnel study with a view toward lessening the responsibilities of the supervisor and reducing its classification.

Lutz said his bureau and the administration have "not been a happy family."

He said his staff is composed of career corrections people who "don't know politics from pineapple."

He asserted that he will devote himself to keeping politics out of the Parole Bureau and then "I shall leave Ohio because of what is happening in the entire corrections system."

gime and felt completely disillusioned and dispirited."

Professor Wu, also one of the many disillusioned intellectuals who fled to Hong Kong in 1959 and is in touch with friends in China, said anti-American agitations there were as receptive as water pouring down a duck's back.

7 Ohio Landmarks Tagged With High History Value

WASHINGTON (AP)—Seven Ohio landmarks have been designated as areas having exceptional value and significance in commemorating American history, the Interior Department has announced.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall said they are among 48 sites designated Wednesday on the recommendation of the Advisory Board on National Parks, Historic Sites, Buildings and Monuments. The list of such sites now totals 452 nationwide.

The latest Ohio areas to be added include the homes of three former presidents.

The Ohio sites: President James A. Garfield's home, "Lawnfield," Garfield purchased in 1876, a 1½-story house built in 1832 with outbuildings. Garfield ran his successful presidential election campaign in 1880 from the house. It is owned by the Lake County Historical Society.

President William Howard Taft's home. Taft was born and spent his first 25 years in this house, from which he emerged to pursue his remarkable career in law and public administration.

President Rutherford B.

Hayes' home, "Spiegel Grove." Built between 1859 and 1863 and later enlarged, it is located on the grounds of the Hayes State Memorial.

S-bridge (Old Washington Bridge), National Road. Constructed in 1828, it is a splendid reminder of the great National Road which was built across Ohio between 1825 and 1837. The bridge is along U.S. 40 west of Old Washington.

Miami and Erie Canal (Deep Cut). The "deep cut" of the Miami and Erie Canal, near Spencerville, is a striking remnant of Ohio's great ante-bellum canal system, which contributed notably to Ohio's swift rise to a leading position in the nation by 1860.

George Hunt Pendleton's home. Pendleton, the "patron saint" of the U. S. Civil Service, lived in a brick, three-story home on a splendid site overlooking Cincinnati.

John Sherman birthplace. Born there in 1823, younger brother of William Tecumseh Sherman who was also born there, John Sherman enjoyed a remarkable career in the U.S. House and Senate, as secretary of the Treasury and, later, of state.

Clergy Told Temptation Besets Even Clergymen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Many people believe ministers walk on spiritual heights and are untouched by sin, but traditionally they have been beset by temptations, an international churchman says.

Dr. Herbert Gezork, president of the Andover Newton Theological School, Newton Center, Mass., addressed the Ohio Pastors Convocation Wednesday night on the subject, "Can Even a Pastor Be Saved?"

"While temptations have been traditional, they are superficial," Dr. Gezork said.

"The deadly temptations that stand in the way of our minister are professionalism, conformity and discouragement."

He said a minister may be tempted to hide behind "smooth professionalism" while actually being unfaithful to his Master. They are expected to be professional in skill but also must be a servant of God, he said.

"There is only one weapon against the pressure of conformity, and that is courage," he said. Americans suspect individualists but accept those who avoid conflict."

Wednesday night's session ended the pastors' 45th annual convocation. Lifetime memberships in the convocation were awarded to three Ohio clergymen.

They are Dr. Joseph I. Chapman of Granville, executive secretary of the Ohio Baptist

Views on Television—Radio

NEW YORK (AP)—Those real-life, folks-next-door characters who populate so many of the television commercials these days are real-life, folks-next-door characters making a nice piece of change for talking up the product.

Some of them were not aware at the time that they were "performers" entitled to fees. They were the ones caught by a hidden camera as they earnestly extolled the virtues of laundry aids, toothpaste or a favorite headache remedy.

But these lucky persons immediately become eligible for a minimum $108 "session fee," established under the performers' union rules—although one-shot "performers" need not join the union.

After that come the residual payments, depending upon how often and where the commercials are used.

A hidden camera appearance could result in a tidy sum of money.

Assume an average housewife is chosen for a TV testimonial commercial. The sales pitch in which she appears is used 20 times in the course of network shows over a period of 13 weeks. She would receive a check for a minimum of $900. An additional 13 weeks of exposure could net her another $800 or so. It could total a few thousand dollars.

Although not a likely candidate for survival, CBS' "Garry Moore Show" has not yet been officially condemned to death after this season. Henry Morgan is on vacation and will be missing from Friday night's "That Was the Week That Was" but Art Carney will be among the performers. Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, will be interviewed Sunday on CBS' "Face the Nation."

The name of the theme song of NBC's "International Show Time" is "Dumpy," by Paul Anka. The usual programs were at the head of the most recent Nielsen top 10 list—"Beverly Hillsbillies," and "Bonanza." CBS' "My Favorite Martian" has climbed into the No. 9 position, between Ed Sullivan and the Lucy Show. Chinese Communist Leaders Single Out LBJ for Attacks

By F. K. WU
Central Press Association
Correspondent

HONG KONG — Hearing only the soft words of American presidents, but never seeing them wielding the big stick, Communist leaders in Peiping have singled out President Lyndon B. Johnson for special attacks as the "representative of the extreme reactionary wing in the United States."

The Peiping radio and press have re-affirmed the stand of "opposition to the United States to the end," it being started from the time of President Truman and carried through Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy. All four American presidents are branded as foes of Chinese Communism.

Another reason why the Peiping regime dislikes President Johnson more than his three predecessors is that on his trip to the Far East in May 1961, he, as then vice president, assured the anti-Communist leaders in the Orient of American support.

Moreover, President Johnson, according to the People's Daily, "is determined to follow the dual stand of President Kennedy in the policy of aggression by American imperialism and the policy of war, which are immutable."

Observers here pointed out that the Chinese Communists have to place before the masses the image of Uncle Sam as the chief enemy retarding their unification of China because of "American occupation of Formosa (Taiwan)" and military aid to India, South Korea, South Vietnam and Thailand just as devastating as "The three successive years of natural disaster" (from 1959 to 1961, inclusive).

In other words, the Peiping administration has to find excuses for its many frustrations and snafus, especially along economic and agricultural lines. Previously, its major failures were steel refining undertakings in homes and backyards, and sowing in close formation in desperate attempts to increase agricultural products.

Anti-American agitations in Red China are being rubbed in on the people to enable them to forget their hardships in the face of an external bogeyman and to increase production, although the masses remain largely indifferent and wonder why the United States is dubbed in one breath as the "most ferocious enemy" and paradoxically a "paper tiger" in another. One of the cause for the antagonism between Communist China and Soviet Russia is the latter's surrender to "American imperialism contrary to Marxism and Leninism."

According to the Kung Sheung Daily News, Peiping's difficulty with Moscow has given rise to the demands of some American merchants and politicians that the United States should take advantage of the rift to conciliate Red China by recognizing it and resuming trade relations, but this local vernacular daily believes that American conciliation would be interpreted as weakness and would strengthen further anti-American clamors.

The same newspaper explained that the Mao Tse-tung government is pursuing an anti-American policy because of talks of certain political figures advocating a simultaneous recognition of the Peiping regime of President Eisenhower's readiness for a sit-down chat with Red China as far back as August 1, 1958, and of President Truman's dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur for championing a blockade of the China coast and bombing of Manchuria (northeast China) during the Korean war.

It is believed here that Peiping might drop its anti-American policy if all the U. S. armed forces in Formosa and adjacent waters and American military aid to Far Eastern countries were withdrawn, and if the United States were willing to sell strategic materials to mainland China.

To challenge the United States and other countries, including Soviet Russia, the Chinese Communist regime is exerting every effort to explode an atomic or nuclear bomb in the near future.

At least such a possibility is assumed by some political figures in the western democracies, who, therefore, urge appeasement to Red China in order to rid it of its goals of world revolution and subversive activities.

However, such likelihood is ruled out by Prof. Wu Chinshing, who taught civil engineering for several years in Canton, on the ground that nuclear physicists have been under close surveillance since their open criticism of Chinese Communism at the invitation, of Chairman Mao Tse-tung, and would not endeavor to produce any atomic weapons.

"Anyway, Red China lacks the resources and facilities that would turn out nuclear bombs, missiles and rockets," the professor said. "One leading scientist, Chien Hsueh-hin, who was trained in the United States, took the lead in voicing dissatisfaction with the Peiping re-

Cleveland's Racial Unrest Is Continuing

CLEVELAND (AP)—The spotlight in Cleveland's worsening school integration troubles moved today to Murray Hill School in the "Little Italy" district today where more picketing was planned by civil rights groups who clashed with whites at two other East Side schools.

Meanwhile, the School Board, which met Wednesday at the scene of picketing at Memorial School, said there would be no change in its position "pending the study now being conducted by the Citizens Council on Human Relations appointed by the board."

The United Freedom Movement, a civil rights group, interpreted the statement as closing the door on negotiations in the dispute over integration of Negro pupils transported by bus to the three predominately white schools.

Some 800 pupils are transported daily from heavily overcrowded Hazelwood School, located in a predominately Negro neighborhood. Until the present semester these pupils were kept together in classrooms at Murray Hill, Memorial and William E. Brett Elementary School.

A board plan for limited "diffusion" of the Negro pupils in the white schools has drawn the fire of the UFM and the Hazelwood Parents Association and also has been attacked by parents of white children in the receiving schools. The civil rights groups want full integration, and protesting white parents say they don't want any mixing.

Rhodes Tries Shakeup of Parole Agency

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Governor's Office has announced it will attempt to rid the state's Pardon and Parole office of "a source of friction" by reassigning and reclassifying two top posts.

John M. McElroy, assistant to Gov. James A. Rhodes, announced the shakeup Wednesday.

He said Roger A. Valentine, executive secretary of the Pardon and Parole Commission, will be reassigned to the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction Friday.

Also involved is Rowland R. Lutz, supervisor of the Bureau of Pardon and Parole. But his situation is not too clear.

Terming Lutz "a source of friction" in the system, McElroy said he requested a personnel study with a view toward lessening the responsibilities of the supervisor and reducing its classification.

Lutz said his bureau and the administration have "not been a happy family."

He said his staff is composed of career corrections people who "don't know politics from pineapple."

He asserted that he will devote himself to keeping politics out of the Parole Bureau and then "I shall leave Ohio because of what is happening in the entire corrections system."

gime and felt completely disillusioned and dispirited."

Professor Wu, also one of the many disillusioned intellectuals who fled to Hong Kong in 1959 and is in touch with friends in China, said anti-American agitations there were as receptive as water pouring down a duck's back.

The Circleville Herald, Thur. Jan. 30, 1964 9 7 Ohio Landmarks Tagged With High History Value

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven Ohio landmarks have been designated as areas having exceptional value and significance in commemorating American history, the Interior Department has announced.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall said they are among 48 sites designated Wednesday on the recommendation of the Advisory Board on National Parks, Historic Sites, Buildings and Monuments. The list of such sites now totals 452 nationwide.

The latest Ohio areas to be added include the homes of three former presidents.

The Ohio sites: President James A. Garfield's home, "Lawnfield," Garfield purchased in 1876, a 152-acre farm with a 1½ story house built in 1832 with outbuildings. Garfield ran his successful presidential election campaign in 1880 from the house. It is owned by the Lake County Historical Society.

President William Howard Taft's home. Taft was born and spent his first 25 years in this house, from which he emerged to pursue his remarkable career in law and public administration.

Clergy Told Temptation Besets Even Clergymen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Many people believe ministers walk on spiritual heights and are untouched by sin, but traditionally they have been beset by temptations, an international churchman says.

Dr. Herbert Gezork, president of the Andover Newton Theological School, Newton Center, Mass., addressed the Ohio Pastors' Convocation Wednesday night on the subject, "Can Even a Pastor Be Saved."

"While temptations have been traditional, they are superficial," Dr. Gezork said. "The deadly temptations that stand in the way of our minister are professionalism, conformity and discouragement."

He said a minister may be tempted to hide behind "smooth professionalism" while actually being unfaithful to his Master. They are expected to be professional in skill but also must be a servant of God, he said.

"There is only one weapon against the pressure of conformity, and that is courage," he said. Americans suspect individualists but accept those who avoid conflict.

Wednesday night's session ended the pastors' 45th annual convocation. Lifetime memberships in the convocation were awarded to three Ohio clergymen.

They are Dr. Joseph I. Chapman of Granville, executive secretary of the Ohio Baptist

Views on Television—Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Those real-life, folks-next-door characters who populate so many of the television commercials these days are real-life, folks-next-door characters making a nice piece of change for talking up the product.

Some of them were not aware at the time that they were "performers" entitled to fees. They were the ones caught by a hidden camera as they earnestly extolled the virtues of laundry aids, toothpaste or a favorite headache remedy.

But these lucky persons immediately become eligible for a minimum $108 "session fee," established under the performers' union rules—although one-shot "performers" need not join the union.

After that come the residual payments, depending upon how often and where the commercials are used.

A hidden camera appearance could result in a tidy sum of money.

Assume an average housewife is chosen for a TV testimonial commercial. The sales pitch in which she appears is used 20 times in the course of network shows over a period of 13 weeks. She would receive a check for a minimum of $900. An additional 13 weeks of exposure could net her another $800 or so. It could total a few thousand dollars.

Although not a likely candidate for survival, CBS' "Garry Moore Show" has not yet been officially condemned to death after this season. Henry Morgan is on vacation and will be missing from Friday night's "That Was the Week That Was" but Art Carney will be among the performers. Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, will be interviewed Sunday on CBS' "Face the Nation."

The name of the theme song of NBC's "International Show Time" is "Dumpy," by Paul

Anka. The usual programs were at the head of the most recent Nielsen top 10 list—"Beverly Hillsbillies," and "Bonanza." CBS' "My Favorite Martian" has climbed into the No. 9 position, between Ed Sullivan and the Lucy Show. TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Jan. 30, 1964. There are 336 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1799, Congress passed the Logan Act, forbidding a private citizen to undertake diplomatic negotiations without official authorization. The act was named for George Logan, a physician and politician who, at his own expense, had tried to improve relations with France.

On this date:

In 1647, King Charles I of England surrendered to Parliament and was beheaded two years later.

In 1835, the first attempt to assassinate a president of the United States was made against Andrew Jackson as he attended funeral services in Washington for a South Carolina congressman.

In 1882, the 32nd president, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, was born near Hyde Park, N.Y.

In 1948, the spiritual leader of Hindus in India, Mohandas K. Gandhi, was assassinated.

Ten years ago — Premier Fanfani and his Cabinet were ousted after losing a vote of confidence in the Italian Chamber of Deputies.

Five years ago — U.S. space experts expressed the belief that Russia could pinpoint cities in the United States with a ballistic missile fired from a distance of more than 5,000 miles.

One year ago — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan accused President Charles de Gaulle of trying to dominate Europe following France's veto of Britain's application for membership in the European Common Market.

Members of the Derby Garden Club held their annual Founder's Day Banquet Monday evening at the Holiday Inn in Columbus.

Mrs. Esther Muselman is recovering from surgery in Mt. Carmel Hospital.

Guard Miscounts, Then Is Dismissed

FREMONT, Ohio (AP) — A miscount has cost William Amherst, 53, his job as a guard at the Green Springs prison honor camp, where he worked since August 1960.

Amherst was dismissed Tuesday on charges he left 43 prisoners unguarded and drove away with William Frawley, 51, a trustee, to look for a prisoner he thought had fled.

Amherst, the only guard at the camp eight miles southeast of here, later returned to find no one was missing and none of the other prisoners tried to escape from the camp, which has no fences.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — That President Johnson has a high regard for Secretary of State Dean Rusk is known. Not known is how much he will let Rusk talk. At this point perhaps Johnson doesn't know.

Under President John F. Kennedy, Rusk was a secondary and almost shadowy figure who played second fiddle. He was an expert technician in the highly complex foreign affairs field where he had specialized since school days.

But he stayed in the background, letting Kennedy make all the important announcements and pronouncements. Rusk seemed highly satisfied to leave it that way.

This was a switch from the days of President Dwight D. Eisenhower. He often sounded like an echo of his older, forceful, sometimes belligerent and always colorful secretary, John Foster Dulles, who died of cancer in 1959.

Dulles asserted himself from the beginning, apparently with Eisenhower's full blessing. Dulles was foreign policy. He was in office only seven days when he talked to the nation on television.

It was a harsh, flamboyant, and in a way undiplomatic talk. But it set the tone for his six years in office.

Dulles worked extremely hard. So does Rusk, but differently. The public was far more aware of Dulles with his record-breaking travels and sometimes unfortunate comments.

The change under Kennedy was so complete it had to be deliberate. Rusk's statements, never as memorable as Dulles', were almost invariably the obvious ones. Or he simply repeated a position already taken by Kennedy.

As a result, his place in the history books won't be as vivid as Dulles'. But from the standpoint of day-to-day living it was easier on him. His low-key observations had a special benefit for him.

He has never been criticized as Dulles was. If you doubt it, just try to remember when Rusk has been criticized for anything, even in Congress by Republicans.

Dulles made headlines but exposed himself and the Eisenhower administration to a lot of rebukes, although Dulles always seemed to be getting them because it was he, more than Eisenhower, who stuck his neck out.

In his Senate years Kennedy seemed to pay more attention to foreign affairs than Johnson, who made his fame as an operator on domestic problems.

Therefore, Kennedy had some positive ideas of his own when he took office. For this reason it won't be surprising that if for a while at least Johnson let's Rusk do more talking than Kennedy did.

This is unlikely to last long. Johnson likes to talk, perhaps more than Kennedy. In the end he probably will like Kennedy, do the main talking on foreign policy while, like Kennedy, getting advice from Rusk.

Maharis Hits Road Again, This Time via Movies

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — George Maharis has hit the road again, but this time it's California Highway 111, not Route 66.

The ruggedly handsome actor, late of television, has made the jump to movies and is starring in an adventure yarn called "T Satan Bug." It is being filmed in the canyons and on the highways of this desert resort by John Sturges, the "Great Escape" man.

The Greek-American is thoughtful and calculating about his career, as evidenced by his relations with his onetime "Route 66" employers. Maharis went that route with buddy Martin Milner for two years and half, attracting a large and demonstrative following among the younger crowd.

Circumstances caused Maharis to leave the television series, after which Glenn Corbett jumped into the codriver's seat. Those circumstances were stormy, and Maharis sketched his side of the dispute during a break in shooting.

"Within a month after leaving the hospital where I had been treated for hepatitis," he said, "they had me working in St. Louis 70 hours a week. This, despite their claims that they would make it easy for me if I came back to the series."

"That seemed to me like a strange way to recover—on the road. I lost complete faith in them (the producers). And I'm the kind of a guy who can't work for someone I've lost faith in."

He said that the best medical advice, including that of a doctor for the company, indicated that he should take a year to recover from the effects of hepatitis.

"And I did just that," he said. "I took off a whole year. The only work I did was some personal in connection with my records, a television version of Edward Albee's 'The American Dream' for David Susskind, and a Judy Garland show."

But the dispute with the "Route 66" makers didn't end. The company still claimed rights to his services. Opposing lawyers finally reached an agreement.

"I didn't pay them a cent to get out of the contract," he declared, "and I didn't give them any call on my services. The only concession I made was that I wouldn't star in any other television series as long as 'Route 66' was on the air." He added with a grin: "And now it's being dropped."

Christian Unity Displayed By Ecumenical Services

NEW YORK (AP)—An Episcopal minister, a Roman Catholic priest and a Presbyterian clergyman jointly conducted the Thanksgiving Eve service in the village hall of Irvington, N.Y.

One asked the invocation. One preached the sermon. One said the benediction.

The service last November was the first interfaith Christian worship service ever in the village, a Hudson River community that was the scene of Revolutionary War activity, and the locale of Washington Irving's fiction.

The service exemplifies the growing popularity of the movement toward Christian unity within the United States and the world.

This ecumenical movement has involved prelates and evangelists, the clergy and the laity, big cities and hamlets, dioceses and individual churches.

The Rev. Dr. Billy Graham, a Southern Baptist making his first appearance at a Catholic institution, discussed the "ecumenical revolution" before an audience at Belmont Abbey College near Charlotte, N.C.

"This is the beginning of something so fantastic it could change all of Christendom and will affect you, your children and their children," the evangelist said.

So far, there has been little, if any, actual exchange of pulpits across the walls of Catholicism, Eastern Orthodoxy and Protestantism. But there has been an opening of dialogue on religious levels ranging from the churchgoer to Catholic cardinal.

Tuesday, by invitation, a Catholic theologian addressed a group of Protestant clergymen in Philadelphia. Today a Catholic clergyman—professor speaks to the Ohio Council of Churches in Columbus. It will be the first appearance by a Catholic churchman before this Protestant body in its 45-year history.

The movement's increased popularity flows from many founts—the unifying work of the National and World Council of Churches, the election of John F. Kennedy as the first U.S. president of Roman Catholic faith, the Vatican Council in Rome.

Christian Unity Displayed By Ecumenical Services

NEW YORK (AP)—An Episcopal minister, a Roman Catholic priest and a Presbyterian clergyman jointly conducted the Thanksgiving Eve service in the village hall of Irvington, N.Y. One asked the invocation. One preached the sermon. One said the benediction.

The service last November was the first interfaith Christian worship service ever in the village, a Hudson River community that was the scene of Revolutionary War activity, and the locale of Washington Irving's fiction.

The service exemplifies the growing popularity of the movement toward Christian unity within the United States and the world.

This ecumenical movement has involved prelates and evangelists, the clergy and the laity, big cities and hamlets, dioceses and individual churches.

The Rev. Dr. Billy Graham, a Southern Baptist making his first appearance at a Catholic institution, discussed the "ecumenical revolution" before an audience at Belmont Abbey College near Charlotte, N.C.

"This is the beginning of something so fantastic it could change all of Christendom and will affect you, your children and their children," the evangelist said.

So far, there has been little, if any, actual exchange of pulpits across the walls of Catholicism, Eastern Orthodoxy and Protestantism. But there has been an opening of dialogue on religious levels ranging from the churchgoer to Catholic cardinal.

Tuesday, by invitation, a Catholic theologian addressed a group of Protestant clergymen in Philadelphia. Today a Catholic clergyman—professor speaks to the Ohio Council of Churches in Columbus. It will be the first appearance by a Catholic churchman before this Protestant body in its 45-year history.

The movement's increased popularity flows from many fronts—the unifying work of the National and World Council of Churches, the election of John F. Kennedy as the first U.S. president of Roman Catholic faith, the Vatican Council in Rome.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — That President Johnson has a high regard for Secretary of State Dean Rusk is known. Not known is how much he will let Rusk talk. At this point perhaps Johnson doesn't know.

Under President John F. Kennedy, Rusk was a secondary and almost shadowy figure who played second fiddle. He was an expert technician in the highly complex foreign affairs field where he had specialized since school days.

But he stayed in the background, letting Kennedy make all the important announcements and pronouncements. Rusk seemed highly satisfied to leave it that way.

This was a switch from the days of President Dwight D. Eisenhower. He often sounded like an echo of his older, forceful, sometimes belligerent and always colorful secretary, John Foster Dulles, who died of cancer in 1959.

Dulles asserted himself from the beginning, apparently with Eisenhower's full blessing. Dulles was foreign policy. He was in office only seven days when he talked to the nation on television.

It was a harsh, flamboyant, and in a way undiplomatic talk. But it set the tone for his six years in office.

Dulles worked extremely hard. So does Rusk, but differently. The public was far more aware of Dulles with his record-breaking travels and sometimes unfortunate comments.

The change under Kennedy was so complete it had to be deliberate. Rusk's statements, never as memorable as Dulles', were almost invariably the obvious ones. Or he simply repeated a position already taken by Kennedy.

As a result, his place in the history books won't be as vivid as Dulles'. But from the standpoint of day-to-day living it was easier on him. His low-key observations had a special benefit for him.

He has never been criticized as Dulles was. If you doubt it, just try to remember when Rusk has been criticized for anything, even in Congress by Republicans.

Dulles made headlines but exposed himself and the Eisenhower administration to a lot of rebukes, although Dulles always seemed to be getting them because it was he, more than Eisenhower, who stuck his neck out.

In his Senate years Kennedy seemed to pay more attention to foreign affairs than Johnson, who made his fame as an operator on domestic problems.

Therefore, Kennedy had some positive ideas of his own when he took office. For this reason it won't be surprising that if for a while at least Johnson lets Rusk do more talking than Kennedy did.

This is unlikely to last long. Johnson likes to talk, perhaps more than Kennedy. In the end he probably will like Kennedy, do the main talking on foreign policy while, like Kennedy, getting advice from Rusk.

Maharis Hits Road Again, This Time via Movies

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) —George Maharis has hit the road again, but this time it's California Highway 111, not Route 66.

The ruggedly handsome actor, late of television, has made the jump to movies and is starring in an adventure yarn called "T. Satan Bug." It is being filmed in the canyons and on the highways of this desert resort by John Sturges, the "Great Escape" man.

The Greek-American is thoughtful and calculating about his career, as evidenced by his relations with his onetime "Route 66" employers. Maharis went that route with buddy Martin Milner for two years and half, attracting a large and demonstrative following among the younger crowd.

Circumstances caused Maharis to leave the television series, after which Glenn Corbett jumped into the codriver's seat. Those circumstances were stormy, and Maharis sketched his side of the dispute during a break in shooting.

"Within a month after leaving the hospital where I had been treated for hepatitis," he said, "they had me working in St. Louis 70 hours a week. This, despite their claims that they would make it easy for me if I came back to the series."

"That seemed to me like a strange way to recover—on the road. I lost complete faith in them (the producers). And I'm the kind of a guy who can't work for someone I've lost faith in."

He said that the best medical advice, including that of a doctor for the company, indicated that he should take a year to recover from the effects of hepatitis.

"And I did just that," he said. "I took off a whole year. The only work I did was some personal in connection with my records, a television version of Edward Albee's 'The American Dream' for David Susskind, and a Judy Garland show."

But the dispute with the "Route 66" makers didn't end. The company still claimed rights to his services. Opposing lawyers finally reached an agreement.

"I didn't pay them a cent to get out of the contract," he declared, "and I didn't give them any call on my services. The only concession I made was that I wouldn't star in any other television series as long as 'Route 66' was on the air." He added with a grin: "And now it's being dropped."

Finn Skier Wins Olympic Gold Medal

Yankees Finish Far Back in Long Downhill Race

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—Finland grabbed the second gold medal of the ninth Winter Olympic Games today when Eero Maenttynen, a 26-year-old border customs employee, won the gruelling 30-kilometer ski race.

The winning time for the 18.6-mile course was 1 hour, 30 minutes, 50.7 seconds. Americans finished far back.

The wiry Finnish world champion crossed the line more than a full minute ahead of the runner-up, Harald Groenningen, a Norwegian farmer who was a doubtful starter until the last minute. Groenningen was clocked in 1:32:02.3.

In third place came Igor Voronchikhin of the Soviet Union, in 1:32:15.8, followed by Janne Stefansson of Sweden, in 1:32:34.8. Sweden's Sixten Jernberg, who won the title at the Squaw Valley, Calif., Olympics in 1960, finished fifth in 1:32:39.6.

The second day of the big ice and snow carnival started under ideal conditions, with the temperature at 5 degrees. The skies were clear.

A total of 69 skiers from 18 nations took off on the exhausting race, staged over two loops on the hard-packed track west of Seefeld.

As the men sped, one after another, over the 18.6 miles, women figure skaters were tracing their first compulsory designs at the Ice Stadium.

The Soviets took the first gold medal Wednesday night in a competition, figure skating, where just a few years ago they were among the also-rans.

The 500-meter speed skating was one of three events in which gold medals were at stake today. The other two were the men's 30-kilometer cross country Nordic ski race and the men's downhill Alpine ski race on the dangerous course of Mt. Patscherkofel.

For the fans, the downhill was the big event. More than 80 skiers were entered in the test, considered by many ski experts as the supreme trial of strength and endurance for skiers.

One skier was killed and several were injured during pre-Olympic training on the Patscherkofel course, packed by hand with snow carried to snow-short Innsbruck from other Alpine areas.

Wednesday's colorful opening ceremony and parade of competitors was followed by only limited competition.

But that competition—in ice hockey and figure skating—was enough to demonstrate the caliber of the Russian entries.

Ludmila Belousova and Oleg Protopopov won the pairs gold medal in figure skating, upsetting the favored world champions from Germany, Marika Kilius and Hans Juergen Baerle. It was the first time the Russians had ever won a figure skating medal.

In hockey, the Russians established themselves as favorites as they swamped the United States, 5-1, in the first match of the round-robin championship tournament. The Americans are the defending Olympic champs, but they were completely outclassed.

The Yankees will open their spring training exhibition season against Baltimore at Fort Lauderdale on March 14 and end it in Richmond, Va., on April 12.

The 6-foot 4-inch pivot man for Williamsport hit for 25 points Tuesday against Frankfort to bring his total to 307 markers in 15 games.

THE DEERS have an overall record of 12 wins and four losses.

All of the five leading scorers are from the Westfall school district. Beard, Seeley and Fenstermaker are seniors. Rowland is a junior and Bowen is a sophomore.

Jeff Lutz, their leading offensive threat, has played in 12 games and scored 162 points.

The Evansville, Ind., Aces regained first place from Grambling in The Associated Press' small-college basketball poll Thursday. The Aces won two games last week while the Tigers from Louisiana had their 16-game unbeaten streak snapped by Arkansas AM&N.

Evansville, 12-2 through last Saturday's games, collected five first place votes and 67 points in the balloting by a special regional panel of seven writers and broadcasters. The Aces beat Kentucky Wesleyan 81-69 and Ball State 90-83 last week.

Grambling dropped into the No. 2 position with two first place votes and 56 points. The Tigers' initial setback came in an overtime, 129-124 last Saturday.

Kentucky Wesleyan, despite its loss to Evansville, remained in third place with 51 points. Pan American advanced from ninth to fourth after losing 84-77 to strong St. Bonaventure, a major opponent. The Texans are 13-3.

Hofstra held fifth place with 33 points followed by Washington of St. Louis 31, Wittenberg 19, Assumption, Mass., 16, Western Carolina 15 and Fresno State 14. Points were awarded on a basis of 10 for a first place vote, nine for second, etc.

Davidson's Perfect Mark Broken by Freak Ruling

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In one of college basketball's oddest incidents of the season the Davidson Wildcats saw their perfect 15-0 record go by the boards on a goal-tending call by the referee as the final buzzer sounded.

It gave the West Virginia Mountaineers, beaten eight times in 17 previous games, an upset 75-73 victory over the nation's third-ranked Wildcats and started a heated controversy.

The unusual finish highlighted a busy Wednesday night on college hardwoods marked also by St. John's of New York's upset 64-60 triumph over Creighton, the four overtime 97-95 victory of Holy Cross over Boston University and the 101-64 rout of Western Michigan by Chicago Loyola, the only other team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action.

Marty Lentz, Fred Hetzel and referee Otis Almond were the central figures in the closing seconds of the Davidson-West Virginia struggle at Charleston, W. Va.

This was the situation: Charlie Marcon of Davidson had tied the score with only five seconds left. With two seconds to go Lentz got a pass at mid-court, whirled and let fly with a long heave. Big Fred Hetzel, Davidson's star, leaped into the air and grabbed the ball above the basket as it came down.

The final buzzer and Almond's whistle sounded at the same time. He ruled Hetzel with goal-tending and awarded West Virginia the winning basket.

Davidson's defeat in the Southern Conference battle left top-ranked UCLA, 15-0, and ninth-ranked DePaul, 13-0, as the only major unbeaten teams. Georgia beat Virginia Tech 96-87, Penn surprised St. Joseph's of Philadelphia 66-51, New York University downed Santa Clara 79-64, Florida State rallied to overcome Missouri 94-79 and Louisiana State defeated New Orleans Loyola 73-62 in other Wednesday games.

Randy Cross threw in 46 points for Boston U., but in a losing cause as Holy Cross won in the fourth overtime on a freeze with 84 seconds left. The regulation game ended 72-72. It was 80-80 after the first extra period, 86-86 after the second and 88-88 after the third.

Vic Rouse, who has been out with a bad shoulder, saw part-time action for Chicago Loyola and racked up 12 points and got nine rebounds against Western Michigan.

Consisting of the spacious 25x14 living room fully carpeted, and too one of the most inviting wood burning fireplaces with natural stone facing that we have seen for quite some time.

The 3 large bedrooms with spacious walk-in closets and the beautiful ceramic tiled bath enter from the exceptionally well arranged fully carpeted hallway.

You will know at first glance that a woman had her hand in the planning of this lovely kitchen with abundance of cabinets, twin sink, disposal, built-in oven, formica table tops, and all other modern features that you would anticipate in a home like this, and you will appreciate the natural country view through the large sliding glass doors from the fully carpeted dining area.

The home is tastefully decorated throughout and of course has hardwood floors, natural finish woodwork, full deep basement 62x24 with fireplace, fully insulated, copper plumbing, attached 2-car garage with stairway to partially finished attic for additional storage space.

The home has lots of modern features not mentioned and must be seen to be appreciated. Owners moving to another county and will sacrifice if sold soon.

Self-Policing Plan Backed

Pro Sports Shun Antitrust Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick endorsed today a bill proposing uniform antitrust exemptions for professional baseball, football, basketball and hockey. He told the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee he understood the measure would permit continued self-regulation by baseball, extend the same right to the other sports and end confusion now surrounding their antitrust status.

Self-regulation by baseball, Frick said in prepared testimony, "has well served the public and the game."

The confusion Frick mentioned stems from Supreme Court decisions which have exempted baseball from antitrust regulation since 1922 but not the other sports.

The prepared statements of all concerned in the hearings remained strictly silent on a temper-sparking issue which interested all of them—the efforts of Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics, to move his American League team to Louisville or Oakland. The league has refused to permit him to move, and Finley has threatened to sue.

Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., told a reporter the subcommittee had notified Finley's lawyers that Finley would be welcome if he cared to testify about his troubles. Long said there has been no indication Finley will show up at these or later hearings.

Chairman Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., had announced the subcommittee would invite but not compel testimony from Finley. Hart, in a statement for the hearing, warned baseball moguls that Congress has an eye on the imbalance in baseball which sees some clubs chronic losers, others equally chronic winners.

There has been grumbling off and on that teams rich in talent tend to trade good players only among themselves, presumably because weaker clubs have little top notch talent to trade off.

City Police To Host Area Conference

The Circleville Police Department will be hosts for tomorrow's Southeastern Ohio Police Conference.

A full day of activities is planned. A classroom session will be held in the morning and the afternoon agenda calls for a practical exercise in the use and effectiveness of certain firearms.

The morning session, slated at 9 in the police classroom in the basement of City Hall, will feature a talk by Capt. Robert Gloeckner of the Columbus Police Department.

Capt. Gloeckner, considered one of the top police interrogators in Central Ohio, will base his talk on "Techniques of Interrogation."

IN THE afternoon, officers will adjourn to the S&J Auto Parts lot on Route 56 where they will participate in a firing exercise. George Steely of the parts firm has offered the group a demolished auto as a target.

Officers plan to fire the riot gun, the Thompson submachine, the standard 38 caliber pistol and the 357 magnum. They then will study the impact and the effectiveness of the rounds fired into the old car.

Representatives from 16 southeastern police departments are scheduled to take part in the all-day session. Members of the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department and the local State Highway Patrol Post have been invited to participate.

Faulty Gas Line Seen Cause of Explosion

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — An explosion rocked a restaurant Wednesday, but four persons escaped serious injury as the blast knocked down the walls. Damage was estimated between $5,000-$7,000.

A faulty line to a propane gas water heater was blamed for the blast at the restaurant in the Maple Lake Motel.

Communist Bloc Drives To Win Over East Africa

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — The Communist bloc is making a determined new drive to win friends and influence people in East Africa.

At the same time the governments of Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika are playing down a threat of Communist subversion, partly for fear of frightening away foreign investors.

Kenya's leftist information minister, Achieng Onoko said Wednesday that no evidence was uncovered connecting foreign interference with recent army mutinies in the three newly independent countries.

But Onoko said that plans for Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai to visit Kenya have been canceled. His visit to Tanganyika also was called off.

Western sources reported the Kenya government is worried that potential foreign investors may view the army mutinies as a serious setback to African stability.

Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika are eager to attract overseas capital.

It is believed that the three countries also are unwilling to offend the Communist bloc for fear of cutting off a potential source of aid. East Africa in recent months has been the scene of increasing Communist efforts to gain influence at the expense of the West.

A drive is being made on several fronts:

About 500 students from Kenya are attending schools in Communist countries. The figure for all of East Africa is probably more than three times that. When they return, they could play a major role in Communist plans for the area.

3 Brutal Slayings Under Probe

CLEVELAND (AP) — Homicide detectives investigating the mutilation of two women have warned that "a vicious, sadistic man is roaming the East Side."

That makes three mutilated bodies that have been found this month.

The killer's victims "apparently are women frequenting taverns late at night," said Lt. Carl Delau, Homicide Bureau chief.

The latest slayings were uncovered Wednesday after a wrecking crane lifted a home from its foundation at 2562 E. 75th St. Workmen peering into the debris in the basement of the abandoned home saw two bodies.

One was that of Mrs. Annie Fay Chandler, 35, who had been supporting two teen-age children under the Aid-to-Dependent Children program. Her throat had been cut, and she had been dead at least 48 hours, police said.

The other woman, Miss Janice Hopper, 22, apparently was strangled about 3 a.m. Wednesday, detectives said.

Police said both women probably had been killed somewhere else and the bodies brought to the abandoned house.

Mrs. Chandler last was reported seen outside a Hough Avenue tavern near East 85th Street shortly after midnight last Friday. Witnesses said she

The flow of Communist publications, banned by the British colonial government, is increasing. The Communists are also helping the Kenya government set up a news agency.

Communist broadcasts in English and Swahili, the prevailing native tongue, are on the increase. The Russians are building a powerful radio transmitter at Mogadishu, in nearby Somalia.
